

Rota mourns loss of Port Ops Sailor

Heather King Navarrete
Rota Coastline

At a memorial held Monday, Capt. Richard R. Noble extended his heartfelt sympathies to the wife and two young sons of BM2 Charles Copley, 36, the Sailor who died Thursday, Sept. 7, of heart failure.

BM2 Charles Copley

"May you find some solace in the knowledge that the memories of Charles Copley, who enhanced and enriched our lives, can exist indefinitely," said Noble.

These memories of Charles, also known as Carlos, are what close friends and family are holding onto right now in the wake of such a sudden and unexpected death.

"We were blessed with a great father and a great husband," said his wife, Angela Copley. "He was always there to help others and he was very involved with people."

"I think God meant us to be together," said Angela, "and if he hadn't passed away, we would have been together until old age." Angela met Carlos during his first tour of duty in the Navy, 14 years ago, at a shopping center in Norfolk, Virginia. He was on his way out of a store, after having bought a religious cross for himself, and she was on her way into a candy store.

Angela said she noticed him right away because she was drawn to his warmth and kindness. This was unusual for her, she said, because she was more into books than she was boys. They had their first date on the Fourth of July, 1986. This was Angela's first relationship.

His close friend, OS1 Adam Brown said, "He was a great family man, a great father, and one of the best cooks around. My wife would tease me and say that I

Vacant housing thefts cost NAVSTA thousands

Heather King Navarrete
Rota Coastline

A rash of thefts in vacant homes has cost the base approximately $4,000 in major appliances.

During a month-long period over the summer, six incidents were reported by housing officials where major appliances, such as refrigerators and washers and dryers, were stolen from vacant units in Las Palmeras housing.

"It has the appearance of an internal job," said Richard Johnston, housing director, "but we are not ruling out any possibilities."

The thefts appear to have happened during the day with only vacant homes being targeted, and there were no signs of forced entry, said Johnston, but measures have now been taken to prevent further theft. Security has increased surveillance of the area, access to vacant units has been limited, and housing has stepped up its monitoring of the houses, he said.

"I think Security has helped us, but I think the community can help us, too," said Johnston. "We have vacant homes in the area and we ask that someone contact the security department if they see any suspicious activity."

"Anyone going into or observed near a vacant home right now is automatically suspicious and may be consid-

New 'Military Star Card' to make debut, replaces NEXCARD, AAFES DPP card

J03 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

Personnel living in Rota can now enjoy the benefits of all military exchanges and associated services worldwide with the new Military Star Card. The card will take the place of Navy's NEXCARD and the AAFES's DPP Card.

"We had people going from base to base who were Air Force and were unable to use their DPP card with us at the Navy Exchange, and we had Navy people going to Air Force bases not being able to use their NEXCARD. It's just going to be a great benefit for everybody traveling," said Jean Bignell, Navy Exchange, Rota's customer relation's representative.

Before the idea of the Military Star Card was put into effect Sept. 3, DoD personnel serving in the Navy were restricted to only using their NEXCARD at Navy Exchanges, mini-marts, and other Navy services. Those in other branches were also restricted.

The Military Star Card will change all of that, uniting all parts of the Armed Forces under one credit line, one piece of plastic. The Star Card will maintain the same credit limit as the customer's previous account, but it will give military members more versatility in its use.

Another change customers will notice when receiving the Star Card will be the increase in interest rates from the NEXCARD's 13.25 percent to 14.25 percent. According to Bignell, customers should be informed of the details concerning their new card.

Customers can already use their Star Cards.

CAPTAIN'S CORNER

Capt. R. Noble,
COMNAVACT, Spain

It's been my tradition to do a Captain's Corner article every other week, but this week I'm going to make an exception. I won't normally ask you to "suffer through" back-to-back articles without a rest, but I have a few topics that shouldn't wait, and also few that could wait, but since we're already here what the heck, let's get them done too.

First, I'd like to re-congratulate the new group of Chief Petty Officers. Their selection has been public knowledge for several weeks now. They have been undergoing a rigorous program of CPO "indoctrination" in order to "get their minds right" for their pending increase in responsibility and accountability, but for the past several weeks they could only be identified as CPO selects by their colorful nametags. The CPO selects official preparations culminate tomorrow night when they put on khakis. Once again, my re-congratulations.

Here's some news you should like. Naval Station Rota now qualifies for a cost of living allowance (COLA). It will "kick in" whenever the money exchange rate drops below 180 ptas to the dollar. When you see the following folks you can express your gratitude because they put in most of the work to get COLA approved: Master Chief McLain, AC1 Anna Thomason (Air Ops), OS2 Luis Vazquez (Port Ops), SK2 William Villamatorres (Supply), and AK1 Jorge Macias (Supply ASD).

I mentioned in last week's Captain's Corner that in September we celebrate National POW/MIA Recognition Day. This special day is being recognized tomorrow, September 15th. Following is a message I recently received that's worth reading: "National POW/MIA Recognition Day is traditionally observed on the third Friday in September. Ceremonies and activities commemorating this important date should honor all former prisoners of war, and servicemembers and civilians who remain unaccounted for, as well as their families. This year, as we honor former POWs, and servicemembers and civilians still unaccounted for, let us remember the sacrifices that these men and women made to preserve the freedoms we continue to enjoy as a nation. As we observe the 50th anniversary of the beginning of the Korean War, let us renew our commitment to all missing Americans and their families, and help support our government's ongoing efforts to determine the fate of those who remain missing in action. To our Navy families, who have suffered the pain and sorrow of separation, death of a loved one, or uncertainty regarding the status of a missing family member, we pledge our continuing support. As a nation, we stand firm in our commitment. Our voices must be as one. Our message strong and clear as we simply say to those who have not yet returned home: 'you are not forgotten!'" This message was sent by VADMN. R. Ryan, jr., Chief of Naval Personnel. Tomorrow, please pause to remember and appreciate the pain and sacrifices of those who spent time in captivity, and those whose fate remains undetermined, while in the service of their country.

On the subject of those who should be honored for service to their country, as many of you are well aware we lost one of our shipmates last week, Petty Officer Charles Copley, when his heart failed. It was of course a shock and a tragedy for all that knew him. He was honored last Monday during an emotional memorial service at the base chapel. You can find more information about BM2 Charles Copley in this edition. I just want to take this opportunity to express my sincere sympathies to his family and friends, and in particular to his wife, Angela. May God bless you always Angela...fair winds and following seas.

Rota Women's Forum to help raise Breast Cancer awareness, registration deadline is tomorrow

JOC Jon McMillan
Rota Coastline

The deadline for registering for the first-ever Rota Joint Women's Seminar is tomorrow. Organizers said all registration forms must be in the mail by tomorrow night.

Already, one of the offered seminars has closed out and organizers said other seminars are getting close to the close out limit.

"Our Basic Investing seminar has already closed out," said Catherine Bird, one of the event organizers. "Also, the interpersonal relationships, travel, health and fitness and spirituality workshops are filling fast," she said.

Nearly 100 women have signed up for the day-long seminar so far, and with more than 60 separate workshops to choose from, organizers said there's still a variety of seminars to choose from. A complete list of seminars, plus a registration form, are available online at www.rota.navy.mil/rjwf.

In addition to the offered workshops, the event is being used by organizers to help raise Breast Cancer Awareness.

"We'll be lighting a candle for Breast Cancer Awareness," said Bird. Keeping with the Forum's theme of "Giving Yourself a Gift," Bird said they want to emphasize that early detection of breast cancer is "giving yourself the gift of health." Breast Cancer Awareness month begins Oct. 1.

Some brochures about the workshop may still be available at various locations around base and are available on the internet at www.rota.navy.mil/rjwf. Attached to the flyer is a registration form that gives women an opportunity to select which seminars they would like to attend. On the day of the seminar, participants will receive a registration package and class schedule directing to them the workshops they've signed up to attend.

The seminar will be held Sept. 30 at the DGF High School.

Drug and Alcohol Training offered

A variety of Navy drug and alcohol training courses are being offered in the upcoming weeks. Personnel interested in attending any of the courses should contact the Naval Station Drug and Alcohol Program Advisor's office at ext. 2876 or 2942.

Anyone who observes individuals in or around vacant houses after normal working hours should call security dispatch immediately, at ext. 2000 or 2001, said SM2 Jeffrey Wright, base security crime prevention.

"Always call if you see something that doesn't seem normal and Security will come out and investigate," said Wright.

Johnston said newcomers should be careful when viewing perspective homes. "The units are supposed to be off limits after-hours," said Johnston. "It's not appropriate to be searching the house after-hours."

Funds to replace stolen appliances come from the life-cycle management program, which is a program that replaces dated appliances with new ones, said Johnston. This means that every appliance bought to replace stolen goods, is one less appliance that will be replaced in a resident's home.

Navy Ball fundraising continues, OCSC donates $300

JOC Jon McMillan
Rota Coastline

Navy Ball committee leaders say they need to raise another $4,000 for the Oct. 13 ball. Most commands have completed their fundraising activities with the Naval Security Group Activity raising nearly $1,600, the Naval Hospital raising nearly $1,200 and the Naval Station raising nearly $1,000.

Money is being raised for the ball so the committee can offer subsidized ticket prices. "The restaurant is charging us 5,500 ptas. for each person," said

NCC(AW) Ed Bastidas, Navy Ball committee chairman. The committee plans on charging E7's and above 4,500 ptas. per ticket, E5's and E6's 3,500 per ticket and E4 and below 2,500 per ticket.

"For that, we're getting a full five-course meal with your choice of fish, chicken, beef or a vegetarian plate. The food is being catered by Los Portales and it's one of the best restaurants in the Cadiz region," said Bastidas.

The goal for this year's Ball is to get as many people as possible to come out and celebrate the Navy's 225th birthday, said Bastidas. In addition to the dinner, a ceremony celebrating the Navy will be held, followed by a dance hosted by a local DJ.

The Naval Security Group Activity is the sponsor organization for this year's Ball and fundraising for the event is being held by command and department Navy Ball committees. In addition to their support, the Officer and Civilian Spouses Club has donated $300 towards the event.

"We welcome donations from base organizations," said Bastidas. "We won't go out and solicit for them, but needed to take notes from him. "He truly loved his wife and he loved his kids," he said.

"He was very proud of his children," said UT1 Eric Tarpley, a close friend. "He loved his boys and he was very playful, but when it was time for business he meant business. He lived in his uniform and he loved the flag."

Carlos served Naval Station, Rota as a boat driver and supply petty officer for Port Operations.

"In any command," said Lt. Cmdr. John Walker, department head for Port Operations, "[being the supply petty officer] is a big responsibility," he said. "He was easy-going and had a good sense of humor. There was nothing not to like about him. He was a good shipmate."

More than a shipmate, Carlos was a good person.

"If you needed something you could always count on him," said Donna Brown, a family friend. "He was always helping someone," she said. "It's hard for us to believe he's gone."

"It all happened so quickly," said Angela, "and he's helped so many people, I think that the Lord just wants him by his side and I can only assume that it was his time to go."

"The important thing is that he didn't suffer," she said. Angela left Rota, Tuesday, with her two sons, Carlos, 7, and Angel, 3, to return to Norfolk. She is keeping in mind what he had told her to do in the event of his death.

"When we would talk about it, he would tell me, 'If it ever happens, I want you to be strong.' And that's what I've been trying to do—to be strong for myself and for my kids," she said.

"Little Carlos sees it that his daddy is up in heaven watching over him and he will keep him in his heart." And as for Angel, she said, "I will tell him how much his daddy loved him and how often he expressed it. I'll let him know that his daddy didn't leave him here; he's watching him from heaven and helping him make the right decisions."

STAR Card

They are coming in the mail with instructions, and the accounts are being merged with their DPP card or NEXCARD account, Bignell said.

Other features will include at redesigned balance statement to assist customers with balancing their accounts.

The Military Star Card is already in distribution in various areas around the world, and will be accepted at most of the various exchange services.

According to NEXCOM Treasury Division, personnel should receive their Star Card soon.

However, upon receiving their Star Card, all military personnel are advised to destroy their NEXCARD and DPP card, even though the two cards will be accepted through December.

Spain and Britain unite to repair HMS Tireless

Gibraltar News — The Spanish and British governments are setting up a special joint unit to oversee repair work on the damaged nuclear submarine, the HMS Tireless, said Spanish officials.

This follows the request by Spain to for details about the repair of the submarine and demands for security guarantees. The captain of the HMS Tireless told Spanish media that all is ready to begin repair procedures, despite protests from communities surrounding Gibraltar.

The chief minister of Gibraltar, Peter Caruana, said that his government will oppose the repairs if the risks are greater than those associated with a normal visit by a non-defective nuclear submarine.

Sources said that it does not require a team of nuclear experts to know that a repair in the nuclear department of the submarine can only entertain a greater risk than if no repairs are executed.

Cushy chair too good to pass up for sleepy Madrid burglar MADRID, Spain (AP) — A burglar at a Madrid medical clinic fell asleep while trying out an ergonomic chair and awoke hours later to the sight of his arresting officers, police said Tuesday.

The 27-year-old man had pried open a large locked metal box in the clinic in western Madrid Monday but decided to try out the cushioned chair before continuing the job, a police news release said.

The man laid his two buzz saws and other tools at his feet and dozed off. He was spotted by clinic employees reporting to work in the morning. The employees quietly called police, who then arrested the snoozing suspect.

Time changes, closures, Carrefour

Several advertisers have asked me to pass on time changes and closures for time off. Restaurante Shanghai, Avenida San Fernando, 49, Rota, is back to opening every day from 1:30 p.m. until midnight. Restaurante Andalucía, Avda. Sevilla, 29, Rota, will close from September 18th until September 27th for their annual holidays. Pancho Villa's in Vistahermosa will now be opening at 6 p.m. every day except Monday when they close. Teresa's Shop, Avenida María Auxiliadora, 80, Rota, will be closed from today through the 19th.

Restaurante La Espuela at the Club Hípica de Rota (take the very first right when you come into Rota by the industrial area), offers live performances Friday and Saturday nights starting at about 11 p.m. The type of music varies from easy listening to flamenco and rociero groups. If you want to know what type of music will be featured, call La Espuela at 956-814558 or 956-230536.

Optica Grande, María Auxiliadora, 32, Rota, has a special offer on youth frames, starting at just 5.500 pesetas. If it is time to get new glasses for your children, stop by and take a look at what they have to offer. They also fit all types of contact lenses and give you up to two months of time to adapt to progressive lenses.

Evening Spanish classes start this coming Monday at Trinity School in El Puerto. There is still time to check them out and sign up. Don't put it off, give Ian a call at 956-871926 or send an e-mail to trinity@spa.es Color is back at Benetton this fall! I had always associated this firm with lots of bright and attractive colors, but the last couple of seasons were rather disappointing in that respect. It seemed that they showed mostly pastels, greys and beige, but now color is back to brighten up your fall wardrobe. There are lots of yellows, golds, reds and bright blues – lots of beautiful plaids, too. Stop by the store in El Paseo Mall.

Speaking of El Paseo Mall, I'm sure you have noticed that Pryca changed its name to Carrefour some time ago. The name change is the result of the fusion of Pryca and Continente. All Pryca and Continente stores are now called Carrefour.

The joining of Pryca and Continente has made Carrefour the largest retailer in Europe and the second largest worldwide. There is a network of more than 9,000 establishments in 26 countries on four continents. The new company affirms that the savings obtained from optimising their distribution chain, logistics, administration and marketing will make it possible to offer the most competitive prices while maintaining quality and offering the latest products.

Last July, the Carrefour centers made the commitment to "freeze" the prices of more than 1,000 articles from more than 100 suppliers, for one year – until July 2001. The new group will continue to support the Down Syndrome Foundation and the ONCE (National Organization for the Blind and Handicapped).

I saw an interesting article in the Spanish newspaper, El Mundo the other day. Thanks to the encouragement of the Industrial Design Department of the University of Cádiz, several students have started a business of hand painting natural silk with original designs. All the paints are obtained from plants using techniques that are thousands of years old. This area has a climate that makes it easy to grow all the necessary plants and there are hopes that this can become an important industry for the bay area, much in the way leather making has become synonymous with Ubrique. Important designers such as Dior, as well as firms from Italy and the United States have already requested the first fabrics.

I am busy preparing this year's restaurant guide, if you have any suggestions, I would love to get them.

Note: Coastlines are no longer being left at McDonald's in El Paseo.

Next time you visit someplace that you saw in the Coastline – be it a store, a restaurant or whatever – say you saw it in the Coastline. Also, share with other readers information about the surrounding area: your favorite spots and shops. A field worker picks grapes that'll be used to make Manzanilla, a fino that comes only from Sanlúcar. The first few weeks of Sept. are typically grape harvest season in this region.

The Land of Sherry

The Making of Wine

story and photos by JOC Jon McMillan

The towns of Jerez de la Frontera, Sanlúcar de Barrameda and El Puerto de Santa María make up what's called the Sherry Triangle, and if a wine is to be labeled a true "Sherry", it must come from this region. Although wine grapes were introduced to this region 3,000 years ago, and the Greeks and Romans exported wine from here, the modern sherry trade here didn't begin until British merchants settled in the region after 1492.

These Brits found that the chalky soil, climate and local grapes produced fine wines. So, for hundreds of years, distinct Sherry wines have been made here.

There are five principle types of Sherry: Fino is the most popular. It's described as dry, fresh, light and crisp and is always served chilled. Manzanilla is similar to fino, but comes exclusively from Sanlúcar. It's also described as dry and light, but is also called delicate with a highly distinctive salty tang. Amontillado is also a fino, but it is characterized by a strong, earthy taste. Some brands are dry, while others are slightly sweetened. Oloroso is a rich sherry with a nutty aroma and it's sometimes sweetened. And the last main type is Cream sherry. It's a rich full, dark blend of oloroso sherry and Pedro Ximénez grapes that is often drunk as a desert wine because of its sweetness.

Because I'm no wine connoisseur – just the differences in the various types of sherry had me a bit confused – and since this is the grape harvest time for the region, I decided I'd like to learn a little more about 'the process.' I was curious, what happens to that little green grape to make it into one of these bottles of sherry?

The folks at the La Gitana bodega – or winery – were kind enough to take me on a tour of their vineyard and bodegas. La Gitana makes a variety of wines, the most famous being the La Gitana manzanilla – which is sometimes called Ferie Wine.

The tour started out in a vineyard half way between Sanlúcar and Jerez. It was hot and I felt for the small crew of field workers picking the palomino grapes used to make Sherry. The picking process lasts anywhere from 10 to 15 days and is an intense time for the vineyards because the palomino grapes have to be picked quickly to ensure they are fresh as they enter the next stage of the winemaking process.

After the grapes are picked, they are put into a large truck and carried away to the nearby grape pressing plant. Here, the grapes go through three different presses. The first press is done very lightly and it yields the best juice from the grapes. The grape juice from the first press is used to make the best wines.

The second pressing of the grapes is done a little harder to get more juice out of the grapes. This juice is used for a bodega's secondary products. The third press – the one that squeezes almost every last drop of juice out of the grape – produces juice that used for not-so-fine wines. The de-juiced grape skins are then pushed out of the presses and sold to chemical factories.

After the grapes have been pressed, the juice is sent over to tall steel vats where the juice is fermented in a process similar to the making of beer. This process takes four or five days. After this, the fermented wine is stored in tall concrete vats for a year or two.

The wine stored in the concrete vats though, isn't anything special really. The distinctiveness of each type and brand of sherry comes after the wine is brought to the bodega and is sent through the solera system.

This system of ensuring consistent quality wine uses three rows of American Oak barrels. The youngest wine – anywhere from one to two years old – is put into the top barrel. Wine anywhere from two to three years old is placed into the middle row of barrels and wine anywhere from 4 to 6 years old. The last barrel in the solera system contains very, very old wine. At the La Gitana bodega, the oldest solera barrel contains wine 150 years old.

In addition to the solera system, the location, temperature, humidity, and height above or below sea level all affects how the wine will taste. It's these differences that give each brand and type of wine its distinctiveness.

Tours are given at most bodegas during normal bodega working hours.

Two American tourists sample Sherry at the La Gitana Bodega. Tours are a

Strength in Numbers

Article IV of the Code of Conduct recognizes that there is strength in numbers. "If I become a prisoner of war, I will keep faith with my fellow prisoners. I will give no information or take part in any action which might be harmful to my comrades. If I am senior, I will take command. If not, I will obey the lawful orders of those appointed over me and will back them up in every way."

During his seven-and-a-half years as a POW in Vietnam, James Stockdale kept faith with his fellow prisoners, and as the senior officer present, he encouraged them to do the same. In his book In Love and War, he says that his "whole concept of POW behavior was based on sticking together. Loners could make out and save themselves. But the bottom line was to place prisoner unity over self-interest."

This Friday you are asked to keep faith with those who have been prisoners of war and those missing in action. At eleven o'clock the chapel bells will toll. Wherever you are, whatever you are doing, you are asked to stop and take a minute to remember. Remember them and the price they paid.

And remember that you, too, are an American, fighting for freedom, responsible for your actions, and dedicated to the principles which made our country free. Like those who have gone before, you will find strength in numbers, will trust in my God and in the United States of America.

Drive-in movies begin around 9:30 p.m.

Pokemon 2000 (G-for general audiences)
Animated; Voices of Veronica Taylor, Eric Stuart (96 min) Ash and his friends try to stop Jirarudan from bringing together the three rare birds that are said to release the sea monster Pokemon, Lugia. This feat would make Jirarudan the most powerful Pokemon trainer on the planet; however, Lugia's power may also destroy the world.

Scary Movie (R-for extreme profanity, nudity and sexual situations)
Comedy/Horror; Shannon Elizabeth & Cheri Oteri (88 min). In this comic parody of modern "slasher" horror films, a group of very dumb teenagers are stalked by a bumbling serial killer a year after they dispose of the body of a man that they accidentally killed.

X-Men (PG-13-for violence)
Sci-Fi, Adventure; Patrick Stewart, Ian McKellen (111 min) Professor Charles Xavier has a dream: a world where the mutant minority and the human majority can live together in harmony. Unfortunately, Magneto and his band of like-minded mutants believe they are superior and should rule over the humans. It's up to the X-Men to protect the very humans that fear and hate them.

Thomas & The Magic Rail Road (G-for all audience)
Fantasy; Alec Baldwin & Peter Fonda (86 min). Mr. Conductor's supply of magic gold dust, which allows him to travel back and forth between Shining Time Station and Thomas's island, is critically low. While Thomas fights off attacks by nasty diesel engines, Mr. C must try to get more gold dust with the help of his friends and a secret engine he has kept hidden for years.

The Adventures Of Rocky & Bullwinkle (PG-for mild language) Rocky and Bullwinkle have been living off the residuals made from the reruns of their cartoon show but when Boris & Natasha cross over into the real world and team up with "Fearless Leader," who has evil plans up his sleeve, they must give up retirement to save the world.

What Lies Beneath (PG-13-for violence, sensuality, and language) Drama/ Horror; Harrison Ford & Michelle Pfeiffer (130 min). A retired concert cellist, recovering from a near fatal auto accident, begins to suspect that her recovery may not be complete when she begins to notice increasingly odd behavior in those around her and supernatural visions of a missing girl who would tell her the truth.

Admirals' Blue team tops White team in pre-season scrimmage

Angelina Iannacone
Rota Coastline

At the Admirals' Blue and White game Friday, the Blue team managed to pull out on top with a 2-point conversion in the last quarter, beating the White team 8-6.

Though the Division III North Champions' game was just a scrimmage, it served as practice for both the players and the officials. The quarters were only 8 minutes long, and there were fewer kickoffs than usual to cut down on player injuries.

The White captain, Kurt Lee, #22, is most likely the fastest guy on the football field. He scored the first touchdown with a run of 16 yards, and showed his skills at how to break through the line.

Returning quarterbacks, Austin Oney, #88, and Andrew Nowacki, #34, have potential and showed progress in their passing skills as the game went on.

The defense this year is looking promising. Following the lead of returning juniors, Captain Brent Bray, #68, Brent Gaylord, #64, Admirals' running back Kurt Lee eludes a defensive lineman.

and Captain Taurean Lynch, #71, displayed their athletic prowess with some nice tackles. The line will no doubt play a large part in bringing home Admiral wins. Newcomers Juan Fairfield, #20, and Lorenzo Cox, #21, also proved themselves good linemen.

White team Captain Keyshawn Coats expects the team to do well in their next game, as long as the Admirals play together as a team, keep their heads in the game and stay determined, he said. "We need to tell them to just play hard and stick to it. In our game today, our line blocked for us. Antwan (Edmonds, #84) followed the block into the endzone, and I just capitalized on the 2-point conversion. That's what made us victorious," said Coats.

Although his team lost, Lee knows the team played well. Hopes are high for the Admirals to beat Alconbury this Friday.

"I think we did good today. We just lost our heads at the end because we got a couple extra players at the end. But through all that, we played well, and I plan to do good against Alconbury throughout the whole season if we play together as a team," said Lee.

For all their good plays, the captains believe that it's the line who deserves the praise.

"I wouldn't have been able to do anything without the line," said Lee.

The Admirals' first season game will be against Alconbury 7:30 p.m. Friday night at the field located next to the Fitness Center.
